*I once had a teacher who taught me to read and how to spell words that I someday would need.
How could she have known where that someday would lead
when she shared her gift with me?*

*I once had a teacher who taught me to sing.
A song in your heart is a wonderful thing.
I wonder if she knew how much joy that would bring
when she shared her gift with me?*

*I once had a teacher who taught me to draw.
She opened my eyes to the beauty I saw.
She taught me to see there is beauty in us all
when she shared her gift with me.*

*I once had a teacher who taught me to play
as part of a team - not always my way.
He taught me a lesson on sharing that day
when he shared his gift with me.*

*All of these teachers shared gifts that were free.
What I do with these lessons is all up to me.
If I share them with others how thankful they will be that they shared their gifts with me.*
